Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie Breaks 2019 Attendance Record

Lincoln, NE (October 26, 2022) – After being online for three years, the Nebraska Department of Insurance and Nebraska Insurance Federation hosted Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie in person once again. On October 24 and 25, members of the insurance industry from across the world came to Omaha to collaborate and discuss all things Insurtech.

Governor Ricketts delivered opening remarks to over 300 attendees from 43 states, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Canada, Israel, and Saudi Arabia. On October 24, Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie 2022 brought out insurance experts from around the world to network at the world-renowned Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo and Aquarium. The following day, those same experts spoke on topics including Big Data, Artificial Intelligence, Embedded Insurance, Commissioners Panel, Gamification, Insurtech & Innovation Regulatory Modernization, Insurtech Investing, Accelerators & Venture Capital, Insurance Company Innovation, Innovations in Microinsurance, Startups, CEO Spotlight and more.

"Our mission at Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie has always been focused on bringing together startups, industry, regulators, leaders, and the minds behind insurance innovation," said Nebraska Department of Insurance Eric Dunning. "Stepping into the Holland Center, I saw experts from across the world collaborate and connect in the great state of Nebraska. Thank you again to all those who attended, and thank you to the amazing team of regulators & industry members who worked on the event. "

"Nebraska has built a reputation as a thought leader in insurance," said Nebraska Governor Pete Ricketts. "More than 16,000 Nebraskans work in the home offices of domestic insurers, and our state's insurers will soon rank #2 nationally in assets. Our business-friendly regulatory climate and UNL's world-renowned Actuarial Science program have helped Nebraska become a hub of insurance innovation. Industry-leading insurers are prioritizing Nebraska as they expand their business. We're also seeing the major success of homegrown insurtech startups – companies developing breakthrough digital tools to better serve policyholders."

Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie is an annual event co-hosted by the Nebraska Department of Insurance and the Nebraska Insurance Federation to foster a better understanding of the rapidly changing world of insurtech.
