Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie sets highest attendance in conference history

Omaha, NE (Oct. 30, 2024) - In its fifth event in its history, Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie (ISP) welcomed a record crowd at the 2024 ISP conference in downtown Omaha.

Nebraska Department of Insurance Director Eric Dunning was the emcee for the conference which saw 489 attendees from 44 states and across the globe. Insurance experts from around the world gathered at the Orpheum Monday night for a networking event.

The following day at the Holland Center, experts spoke on topics including discussions on AI in insurance, conversations by industry leaders, regulation in Insurtech and AI, and hearing from state insurance commissioners from four states.

"The goal at Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie is to bring together startups, industry, regulators, and some of the minds that drive insurance innovation," Nebraska Department of Insurance director Eric Dunning said. "With the growth of the conference and another record setting year, I'm so grateful for everyone who attended and a thank you to all the regulators and industry members who worked on and made this event possible."

Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie is an annual event co-hosted by the Nebraska Department of Insurance and the Nebraska Insurance Federation to strengthen understanding in the world of insurtech.
