Collaboration to Drive Change

"This conference grows every year and underscores the importance of innovation and collaboration in shaping the future of the insurance industry," Eric Dunning Director of the Nebraska Department of Insurance said. "Bringing together regulators and innovators in one of the nation's key insurance hubs helps solve important challenges and create positive change."

CE Credit Opportunities

Attendees can receive continuing education (CE) credits for attending the full day of the conference. Those hours come from the Nebraska Bar Association, Nebraska Department of Insurance (producers and agents), and the Society of Financial Examiners.

Nebraska: A National Insurance Leader

As one of the leading insurance locations in the country, Nebraska has approximately 110 domestic insurers and over $1 trillion in total assets.

Last year's conference set a record for attendance with 489 attendees from 44 states and across the globe. This year's conference is on track to break another attendance record. To learn more about Insurtech on the Silicon Prairie, visit siliconprairienebraska.com.
