*SEP is only available if you had coverage from a current employer. – SEP Enrollment lasts for eight months after employment ends but cannot start until the full seven month IEP has been completed. The earliest the SEP can begin is the fourth month after the 65th birthday.

What is the Medicare Part A and B Initial Enrollment?

The Initial Enrollment Period (IEP) is a seven-month period available when one is first eligible for Medicare, either at age 65 or on the 25th month of Social Security disability benefits. The seven-month period begins three months before the first month of eligibility (month of the 65th birthday or 25th month of disability benefits). The Medicare effective date will depend on when you enroll, but will always be on the 1st of the month. Use the chart on the opposite side to determine when your Medicare will start.

Who should enroll during Initial Enrollment?

Initial Enrollment should be used by those individuals who CANNOT get insurance through a current employer. This would include anyone who is retired, self-employed or whose employer does NOT offer health insurance.

What if I get insurance from my employer?

If you get insurance from a current employer (you or your spouse’s employer) you are not required to enroll during this enrollment period. When your employer coverage ends, you will get a Special Enrollment Period to enroll in Medicare at that time. Even if you get insurance from an employer, you should compare the work coverage to Medicare as Medicare may offer better, less expensive coverage.
